Are you a member of an afterschool club? Schools in most countries have activities after school where students can spend time exploring skills and interests not usually covered in regular classes. These afterschool club activities are important for several reasons: they give students freedom to choose and follow their own interests (students have to take most school subjects, but they are not usually forced to join any one club activity), they help students to get a wider set of skills and knowledge, they help students to meet and socialize with students in other classes and year groups, and they teach the importance of team responsibility.

Traditional club activities include music, art, and sport. However, not all clubs are so ‘normal’. Did you know that there are afterschool activities such as Lego Club or Gardening Club? Although they are not very traditional, they certainly can be educational and important for students’ development. For example, by building with Lego, children can explore their creative skills and perhaps develop an interest in construction and even engineering. As for gardening, it can get students interested in learning about science and nature, as well as help them develop healthy eating habits by growing and eating their own fruit and vegetables.

Club activities are a great way to learn, develop your character, meet people, and have fun. What’s more, as you get older, you might find you have less and less time to follow your own interests and hobbies, so school is the best time to join a club. Think about what you’re really interested in, and join that club. And if it doesn’t exist yet, why not set it up?

 - a) Clubs are fun.
 - b) School subjects are very important for your future.
 - c) School subjects are not voluntary.
 - d) Clubs provide knowledge.

3. According to the 2nd paragraph, which of the following activities is unusual for a club?
 - a) soccer
 - b) piano
 - c) gardening
 - d) painting

4. According to the passage, which club might make students lead a healthier lifestyle?
 - a) Lego club
 - b) gardening club
 - c) karate club
 - d) chess club

5. Which of the following is not listed in the final paragraph as a benefit of club activities?

IV. 次の英文のメールを読み、与えられた日本語のインフォメーションを全部用いて、英語で返事を書いてください。

Dear John,

I heard from our friend Kei that you will be in town this weekend to attend the international conference.

As you might know, my house is located very near the International Conference Hall. Have you reserved a hotel already? If not, I hope you can stay at my house.

If you stay with us, Kei might join and the three of us can catch up! It'll be fun!

Also, if you have time, we can hike in the nearby mountains and row a boat on one of the lakes, enjoying the fresh air. We can enjoy the greenery of nature!

In the lake, there are so many big colorful carp, which are said by local people to be sacred. Feeding them is also fun because they compete like crazy for a tiny piece of food!

Of course, I can also show you around some popular sightseeing spots, if you like.

Looking forward to hearing from you,

Tomoko
