

Dear Hana

Thanks for your message. You must be busy too at the end of the year so thank you so much for planning the party.

I think the idea for a pot luck party is really good. By the way, do you think it would be OK to bring some bought food instead of a homemade dish?

I like the proposal for a present exchange. However, I think maybe we should limit the price to about 1000 yen.

And how about everyone singing a song at the end of the party? That would be something unforgettable, wouldn't it?

Bye for now,